

A TALE OF A DONKEY

The villager's donkey was sick,
Master Vet of Gerze has the remedy for it,
Sick donkey was groaning with pain,
Master vet listened to its stomach and got rolling,
Its bowels were playing with a gurgling sound,
It was suffering from gas as the vet figured out,
With a knife he made a hole in its belly,
And the gas got out instantly,
"Hee-haw", donkey desperately cried,
It would have called the police if it could yelled,
What a grumpy donkey it was,
The master did not cover the hole as a stubborn person he was,
He always had his own way,
The donkey's pain went away,
The master got his effort's worth, the work was done,
Then villager rode his donkey and trip to village begun,
But poor donkey died before reaching home,
The villager started to look for the master everywhere he roamed,
He was so mad at the master that he could have beaten him badly,
What a dramatic end for this story!
